THE Book Mark

Dr. Helen Macknight Doyle of Berkeley has just written a biography of Mary Austin—"Mary Austin: Woman of Genius" (Gotham House $3.00). This is Dr. Doyle's second book. You may remember her autobiography "A Child Went Forth", which came out in 1934. It was Mary Austin who wrote the foreword for this book. May we include a parenthesis to say that "A Child Went Forth" continues to be read. It is especially a favorite in club book sections where it lends itself admirably for review and discussion. After a full rich life, she has retired, like many of her colleagues, from the practice of medicine to enter the practice of literature.

During her life time and even after her death, Mary Austin was one of those people who engendered strong partisanship or sharp antagonism. There can be no question but that she was "a misunderstood woman."

Dr. Doyle first met Mary Austin at Bishop, Inyo county, where the doctor had opened her first office for practice. As a gossip runs riot in a small town, the doctor soon heard about Mary Austin who was at that time teaching in the Bishop academy. Most of the townspeople accused Mary of being snobbish and superior and mistreating her sub-normal child. Mary Austin was then 27 years old, a short dumpy-looking woman, tired and harassed most of the time. Her husband was a kind but inadequate person who could always manage to get the sympathy of people but who was incapable of making a living for his family. Mary had placed the four-year-old subnormal daughter on a ranch in order that she might be free to teach and write and make the money necessary to pay for an operation for the child. For a sensitive woman who had loved and wanted children, this in itself was a terrible affliction. But Dr. Doyle points out that long before this Mary Austin was psychologically conditioned to an inferiority complex.

Mary had been an unwelcome child. Her mother showered affection upon her other two children but was singularly cold and unsympathetic toward Mary. When the little sister died, Mary overheard her mother say: "Oh why couldn't it have been Mary." This lack of maternal love caused Mary to grow into a broody morbid child. As she grew older, it made her take on a defensive attitude.

At Bishop, Mary Austin and Dr. Doyle became fast friends. It was here that Mary Austin began to write making use of the eastern slope of the Sierras, a virgin country in books at that time, for her settings. Her first stories appeared in "Black Cat." (How many remember that rather sinister looking magazine?) But she was quick to gain recognition and was soon selling to Atlantic Monthly. Mary Austin worked hard at her writing. In her case, genius may have been a capacity for taking infinite pains as she would struggle for hours over the right word for an idea or a description.

Mary Austin's next move was to Carmel, Jack London, James Hopper and George Sterling were living at Carmel. A story is told that Mary Austin's house had a cow's tail for a bell-pull. But what looked like a cow's tail was a strand of ancient Spanish hair hope that had an interesting story attached to it.

Californians cannot afford to neglect Mary Austin's books. Their characteristic quality we would say, is a dealer with direct living. "The Plock" set in the country around Bakersfield, is one of her best books although it is not so well known as her "Land of Little Rain," "Starry Adventure," and "Land of Journey's Ending" are also worthwhile. "Experiences Facing Death" is the personal account of how she finally overcame the feeling of insecurity that had haunted her all of her life. In later years when she went to live at Santa Fe, New Mexico, Mary Austin developed an interesting philosophy based upon what she called "Amerindian rhythm." "Earth Horizon," written a few years before her death, is her autobiography. If you read it along with Dr. Doyle's book you will get a fairly proportioned picture of this gifted woman and her strange, special genius.

R. C. M. Berriman, of Georgetown, is reported to have been removed during the fore part of the week to Highland Hospital, at Auburn.

WATER INQUIRY IS RESUMED

George Devore Caller To Give Testimony On Friday Morning

The inquiry into the North Side water problem, which was resumed on Wednesday of this week after several months in recess, continued Friday morning before Commissioner C. C. Baker, of the state Railroad Commission, in the Supervisors' room at the courthouse.

Hearings had been held through Wednesday and until noon on Thursday, when an afternoon recess was called until Friday morning.

The hearing combines three matters before the Railroad Commission, a petition by the Georgetown Divide Water Company for leave to increase its rates; a protest by water users against the service afforded by the company; and the Railroad Commission's own inquiry into the rates and the operation of the water company.

George Devore, representing the water company, was called upon for testimony Friday morning and it was indicated as adjournment was taken for luncheon that he probably would be asked for further information as the afternoon session was resumed.

Some among the large number of spectators at the hearing reported they were especially impressed by an explanation of some of the business arrangements of the water company as drawn from Mr. Devore by I. H. Paffenberger, of the Law and Utilities department of the state Farm Bureau, which is assisting the water users in the presentation of their testimony in the hearing.

Observers reported that Mr. Devore explained the water company has deeded approximately three hundred acres of land including a sawmill on South Fork to Sophia Rosenberg and had leased the

P. T. A Met On Thursday

Grammar School Lunch Room Will Be Started Tuesday; Milk Fund Aided

Placerville Parent-Teacher Association, meeting Thursday afternoon at the grammar school, made plans to start the lunch room at the school on Tuesday of the coming week, serving dishes to supplement the lunches of the children at a nominal charge.

The lunch room will be operated by the P. T. A. on a cost basis and is in no way associated with any government agency.

The association Thursday received a check from the Soroptimist Club of Placerville in the amount of $27 which is for the milk fund. The check represents collections over a given period by the club, which has milk bottles placed in stores in the community where those who desire to do so may help support the milk fund by contributing small change from time to time.

Mrs. Mildred Lefevre, president, conducted the P. T. A. meeting, which instituted plans for a Founders' Day tea for which Mrs. Martin Luther is chairman, and which will be held in mid-February.

The next regular meeting of the organization will be on Thursday, February 1, and the meeting is being planned as a fathers' night.

Entertainment for the meeting was provided by Miss Kathleen Richardson's "Pet Club" in the form of a play, and four pupils in Miss Laura Ball's orchestra were heard in instrumental numbers. The quartet included Carolyn Larson, Maxine Bathurst, Bobby Hollenbeck and Jimmy Franklin.

Mrs. Lloyd Austin, hospitality chairman, introduced to the unit Miss Richardson and T. R. Schneider, who are the seventh grade teachers. The mothers of seventh grade pupils, with Mrs. Fred Miller, as chairman, were hostesses for the social hour which followed the meeting.

The discussion topic for the meeting was "Human welfare, the first consideration of democracy," and was presented by Mrs. B. E. Larson, Mrs. Horace G. Dunn, Mrs. Wilder Immel and Mrs. Lloyd Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Peirce, of Placerville, are the parents of a daughter, Priscilla Gale Peirce, born January 10.

Message from Gandhi

WATER SURVEY IS SUGGESTED

Farm Bureau Initiates Move For Study Of Georgetown Problems

The opportunity for users of the Georgetown ditch to petition for an intensive study of all phases of the Georgetown water problem by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the federal Department of Agriculture, is being provided by the El Dorado County Farm Bureau. At their regular January meeting Thursday night at the Farm Advisor's office, the directors of the Farm Bureau voted to place such petitions in circulation for signing by users along the ditch.

The action pointing toward petitioning for the study was taken in view of the circumstance that the current series of hearings on the Georgetown water situation before the Railroad Commission has emphasized the utter absence of the information such a study might be expected to produce.

The directors stated that the petitions were being drawn up on Friday and probably would be in circulation by the early part of the coming week. The motion in the matter was put by L. W. Veerkamp and seconded by Dr. W. A. Rantz.

Other important business of the meeting concerned a movement intended to foster active participation in the Farm Bureau's deciduous fruit, irrigation, livestock and forage crop departments in the county. (Continued on page four)

Ray Alvino Charged With Burglary

WATSONVILLE, (UP)—Ray Alvino, former minor league baseball pitcher, was held in the Santa Cruz county jail under $1000 bond charged with burglary. Alvino, who pitched for San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League and for the Bartlesville, Okla., farm club, of the Cincinnati Reds, allegedly broke into a liquor store, took four cases of whiskey, a wrist watch, cigars and cash. He faces preliminary hearing Jan. 18th.

SACRAMENTO RIVER HITS HIGHEST LEVEL FOR SEASON TODAY

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—The Sacramento river reached a season high level of 25.6 feet at Sacramento this morning and was still rising, the weather bureau reported. The figure was over three feet below the flood stage, however.

The level at Knights Landing was 29.3 feet and a crest of 24 feet was reached at Colusa. The river was falling at all points above Colusa. A total of 53 inches of snow was reported at Norden, with two inches of new fall overnight. Truckee had 12 inches on the ground with only a trace of new snow.

Name For Sports Area Chosen

Ski Club Members Would Have Snowfields Known As Lover's Leap Area

What's in a name? was the main question before the meeting of the Placerville Ski Club Thursday night and the skiers answered the question.

By resolution, they expressed a desire that the snow sports area near Strawberry and Twin Bridges be known as the Lover's Leap Ski Area.

The same resolution also designated the new hill as the Lover's Leap Ski Hill and proposed that the new shelter, which is being built by the Forest Service in co-operation with the ski club, be known as the Lover's Leap Ski Shelter.

In view of the uncertainty of the weather during the weekend, no group activity in the Lover's Leap Ski Area was planned, however, the enthusiasm of members indicated that with favorable weather there will be a large number of them go to Twin Bridges to frolic in the snow of the Lover's Leap Ski Area, inspect the work done on the Lover's Leap Ski Shelter, and perhaps ride on the up-ski to such a point on the Lover's Leap Ski Hill as will assure them a fast and thrilling slide to the bottom.

RESERVATIONS END SATURDAY FOR C. OF C. DINNER

Fred H. Tatton, Manager Of Sacramento Valley Council Of State Chamber Of Commerce, Will Be Speaker At Meeting On Monday Night

Reservations for the annual membership dinner of the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce, which will be held Monday night at Hotel Raffles, will close Saturday evening. It was announced Friday morning by Wallace M. Ripley, chamber secretary.

Those who expect to attend the meeting and who have not reserved places should file their reservations with the secretary before closing time, he said.

"It is not only unfair to the hotel management, but it is an imposition upon those who have made their reservations when a number of persons who have not reserved places come unexpectedly to a dinner meeting," Mr. Ripley noted, in urging the desirability of placing reservations immediately.

"The meeting is intended as a get-together occasion as well as the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce, and all who are interested are welcome to attend."

In addition to welcoming Swift Berry as the new president of the organization and Roy Strum as vice-president, succeeding Ogden Hook and John Raffetto, Jr., respectively, the Chamber of Commerce will hear reports of various phases of the organization's activity during the past year.

A special speaker of the evening will be Fred H. Tatton, manager of the Sacramento Valley Council of the state Chamber of Commerce, from Sacramento.

Secretary Ripley announced at noon that reservations for the dinner meeting at that hour totaled 110.

Oakland Slayer Appeals For Commutation

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—Rodney Greig, 22-year-old Oakland youth who is under sentence to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison on March 1 for stabbing his sweetheart, Leona Viught, 20, to death on Dec. 7, 1938, today appealed to Governor Culbert Olson for commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment. Olson sent the case to the state advisory pardon board for study.

EUROPE REPORTS EXTREME COLD AS NINE DIE IN HEAT WAVE AT BUENOS AIRES; MOSCOW CLAIMS "40 BELOW"

By UNITED PRESS
LONDON (UP)—Storms and record cold in central and eastern Europe have paralyzed Russia's Black Sea ports, as well as freezing the Danube Delta, and Denmark's "great belt" channel in the Baltic is now threatened by ice, reports said today.

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast picked up here last night, reported the temperature at Moscow had reached a record low of 40 degrees below zero.

German radio newscasts picked up at New York said there were numerous reports from all over Europe of people freezing to death, that all rivers were frozen and that even Odessa harbor in the Black Sea, was in danger of becoming icebound. Port traffic was being kept open by means of ice-breakers, it was said.

NINE HEAT DEATHS
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, (UP)—Nine heat deaths in 36 hours had been reported in the capital today, and some people had died in the provinces. Sixty persons were taken to hospitals yesterday, suffering from heat prostration, and it was estimated that more than 200 others had been treated. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 96½.

COAL RATIONED

BERLIN, (UP)—Severe cold caused increased suffering in Germany today because of the strict rationing of coal.

Supplies of coal were dwindling, because canal boats were ice-bound. At first only poorer people suffered, but today big apartment houses in the prosperous west end of Berlin were feeling the cold. The landlords had to close down furnaces, and such families as could, installed electric heaters or tried to build small emergency fireplaces in their apartments.

Beer halls and similar places, in some instances, had to close down because of lack of fuel, and outdoor vegetable markets closed so that Berliners had to form queues in the below zero cold outside the small closed-market stalls.

SOVIETS RENEW FINN CAMPAIGN

Picked Troops Reported Being Parachuted Behind Finnish Lines By Reds

Russian troops on the central and northeastern Finnish fronts — reportedly reinforced by picked GPU units — appeared today to be attempting a new drive through mid-Finland toward the Gulf of Bothnia.

So far the Finns have succeeded in breaking up the Russian preparations but there appeared to be severe fighting in the northeastern Salla sector and Soviet patrols were operating on the important roads leading toward Rovaniemi. Similar operations on a smaller scale were reported from the far northern or Petsamo front.

Finns were confident the Red army advance across the narrow "waist" of Finland could not be resumed effectively this winter but dispatches to Copenhagen newspapers said that the Russians were stronger and more active. The same dispatches said they were dropping troops by parachute behind the Finnish lines on the southeastern Karelian Isthmus, but that sharpshooters killed the descending soldiers.

Finnish success in cutting Russian communication lines was reported most effective in stalling the mid-Finland offensive and Copenhagen newspapers asserted that a Soviet unit appeared to have been cut off by the Finns in the Salla sector.

Cougars Await Sutter Creek

High School Casabans Start League Race In Three Games Tonight

Cougar basketballers start their Mother Lode High School League schedule tonight at the county high school gymnasium in a series of three games against the Sutter Creek high school squads.

The order of games will send the C teams of the two schools onto the floor at 7 o'clock to be followed as fast as the games can be concluded by the B quintets and then the A fives.

Preparations have been made to seat comfortably a large crowd of rooters at the games and it is hoped that the attendance will demonstrate to the Cougars the active interest which their followers have in their chances of success in the high school league.

The Cougars concluded a successful practice season last Friday by winning in three games from the Jackson high school. However, Jackson was at a disadvantage in that the school has no gymnasium although the teams had practiced on an outside court.

Alfred Eames Named Head Of Packing Firm

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—The resignation of Leonard E. Wood as president of the California Packing Corporation was announced today. Alfred W. Eames was named to succeed him.

Wood, head of the corporation since 1932, resigned the presidency because of illness. The announcement said he would remain as a director and as chairman of the finance committee.

Eames was advanced from the vice presidency he had held since 1931.

ROOSEVELT WANTS TO KEEP FINLAND OUT OF "POLITICS"

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President Roosevelt today suggested democratic and republican leaders seek agreement on a program of aid for Finland to prevent the question from becoming a partisan issue.

The President said that he is personally convinced that Finnish aid should not become a political issue and expressed hope congressional leaders would get together on the question.

NEVER FOR MONEY by JAMES ASWELL

SYNOPSIS

Belinda Terrell loved Johnny Parkes dearly, but he was wealthy and she no longer was rich so she felt that if she married him now it would be for his money. She returned Johnny's ring but he told her it didn't make a bit of difference what her decision was. She was his from the beginning and he was "annoyed" by her even raising a question about their marriage. "I'll show him," says Belinda. "And when you've shown him what? You'll marry him," Fogg, her companion and former governess, tells her. Belinda stuns Fogg by saying that she has a job as a dinner companion with the J. G. Fuhrman Service. "Why shouldn't I cash in on the only thing I know?"

CHAPTER II

She promised Fogg she wouldn't finally.

But Belinda set forth for the J. G. Fuhrman Service from the springboard of refreshed resentment of Johnny Parkes and humiliation. There had been the problem of exit. Mrs. O'Hara, the landlady, was capable of taking a post of vantage in the small parlor whence she could intercept, with a militant glare, the goings and comings of defaulting tenants. The two rooms and bath—Miss Fogg slept on a day-bed in the living room—occupied by the Misses Fogg and Terrell had not been paid for in nearly two weeks. That, perhaps, is not a long time for residents of the Ritz Tower, but it is a perilous hiatus for West Seventy-fourth Street. Belinda had opened slow motion, the door into the hall. She was prepared to slink, to crimson with excuses, promises, alibis.

Mrs. O'Hara—an astonishingly beaming and obsequious Mrs. O'Hara—pounced from her parlor ambush.

"It's a fine day, Miss Terrell, you're choosin' for your stroll. I'm for getting a bit of it myself a little later. Here's a paper for ye, dearie."

"Honestly, Mrs. O'Hara—" She had begun the stall before her eyes comprehended the message on the bit of white paper. The message, a receipt, conveyed the fact that the rent for the Misses Terrell and Fogg had been paid a month in advance.

Belinda went suddenly rigid with the impact of her guess.

"Who paid you, Mrs. O'Hara?"

"Why, I'm shure the both of ye did. It was a fine figure of a chauffeur that handed me the money, sayin' that ye had sent him with it."

Belinda bit her lip, mumbled something idiotic and walked quickly past Mrs. O'Hara. So Johnny Parkes had had the insulting brass—

If only her father were alive! he'd put Johnny Parkes in his place quickly enough. But would he? It made her angrier than ever to recall now on one occasion Johnny had incurred the elder Terrell's wrath—in the matter of swiping the Terrell's sailboat and capsizing it a mile from shore; and he had swum in, while Belinda clung to the rudder, to talk Mr. Terrell into regarding him as a hero in five minutes. He was fifteen then, learning rapidly.

But she saw now, more clearly than ever, the need to escape from Johnny Parkes. Let him marry some meek little girl—preferably a slightly faded blonde—over whose ego he could gloat to little gurgles of admiration. But not over her!

"Oh, Lord," she murmured under her breath, fervently, as she neared Columbus Avenue, "let the Fuhrman Service be a decent, safe concern, crazy as it is—and Lord, let them hire me!"

At that moment her nerves jumped with the croon of a pert French horn. She wheeled and, sure enough, Johnny Parkes' ridiculously, boyishly long and nickle motor was careening toward her. She had once told Johnny that he occupied the tonneau of his limousine as if he were Prefect of Rome doing the morning rounds by chariot. "I feel like that most of the time," he had replied unfazed.

Now she was furious. She didn't turn again or answer when he accosted her. Or rather accosted his chauffeur in a loud, facetious tone: "Henry, we've got to make some progress with this one. Four have turned us down already. She looks until they went to pieces in half-hysterical recognition that Johnny had a private pact with life, a treaty with defeat. It was intolerable and disgusting. Belinda saw it now and hated it and him.

"Your name," said Johnny, smiling, "is Miss Belinda Terrell." He looked at her hard and curiously.

She addressed the policeman. "He's crazy or drunk. My name's Lucy Williams. Are you going to protect me, officer, or aren't you?"

"—and Belinda heard in his voice a relentless, humorous contemptiveness she hadn't heard since childhood. "Lucy Williams? Observe, like her name might be something nice—say, Belinda. Oh, Belinda, I beg your pardon, Belinda, but haven't we met before?"

With a neck pinker than spun circus candy, feeling absurd and increasingly on the verge of outraged tears, Belinda kept her eyes straight and quickened her pace. The blue bulk of a puzzled policeman, directly ahead, offered blind succor—which at once dawned upon her as the perfect, the humiliating snub.

"Officer! Please make this man leave me alone!"

The officer, who was clearly a private, grinned, cocked his head from the hurrying young woman to the gently pursuing automobile. At last he made up his mind.

"Hey, what's the idea, there? Step on it, Jack, and take that masher back to the garage where he rented his circus wagon. What's he think he is? This is a nice little dame and she don't feel like ridin' with that ape."

Belinda paused, tingling with magnificent malice, to remark theatrically: "Of all the nerve! I never saw that man before in my life."

Johnny, his eyes wide and twinkling undimmed, opened the door of his car and got out. There was a quality about John Morton Parkes which enraged adversaries: in the midst of crucial situations his gray eyes would glitter with a kind of cold abstraction. They would scampir mirthfully away from the business in hand and men who hated him would be sure that he had seen some implication not clear to ordinary eyes. In prep school, older and stronger boys had pummeled him officer, that Miss Williams wears a bracelet with her initials set in it. 'B' for Lucy and 'T' for Williams."

Belinda involuntarily clapped a hand over the wrist encircled by the monogrammed band as the officer's glance rested upon it and his eyes extended.

"Well, now, then—" offered the policeman, distinctly at a loss.

Belinda's lips quivered. She wouldn't surrender to the choking shame that crowded up. For no reason, then, she was able to hold Johnny's eyes. She was cool and for once she knew he had lost.

"You are making a fool of yourself, you contemptible money-grubber," she said low. "Can't you take a hint? You have bored me for years."

She turned her back on him and walked unhesitatingly off in the direction of the subway station. He didn't follow. She heard him say, "Have 17"—in a voice that was incredulous, like a little boy's. And before she was out of earshot he cried: "You're a fibber, Belinda. I love you."

Pedestrians had begun to take an interest in the colloquy. Belinda was glad to descend into the fetid, gassy hole under the kiosk. Johnny's last half-shouted words had been characteristic: "You're a fibber, Belinda. I love you." He would call out a thing like that in a public place! But had she detected an undercurrent of doubt? Had he, this time, been talking to himself instead of to a clownish and conquerable world?

68 Trapped in Mine Are Feared Dead

BARTLEY, W. Va., (U)—Mining engineers and inspectors agreed today that the 68 men trapped in a coal mine explosion here probably were dead, after the bodies of 23 other miners had been recovered by rescue crews.

The bodies of 13 of the victims of Wednesday's explosion were taken from the chamber known as the "third right" early today. Four bodies were taken from the mine yesterday.

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

LOS ANGELES (U)—Given health and carfare I am going out and try to locate Richard G. Scott of this city.

Mr. Scott may look as other men do but he has qualities, or says he has qualities, which certainly lift him above his fellow man. He filed suit in superior court for an injunction to restrain the Santa Anita track from barring him from that home of the thoroughbred.

In his complaint and can you imagine anyone complaining about being kept out of a race track? Mr. Scott said that his superior knowledge of race horses enabled him to make a living out of the pari-mutuel machines. When you stop to think how many pari-mutuel machines have made a living out of all of us except Mr. Scott, my desire to get a look at him is understandable.

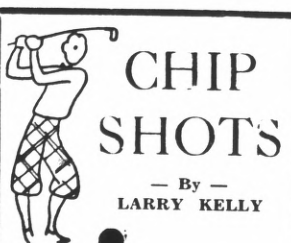

I'm not one of the big race track philanthropists, but some of the smaller denomination pari-mutuel machines have lived off me quite nicely for years. They never were quite able to go around with the $50 and $100 pari-mutuel machine set, but they belonged to a modest country club and were able to send Parimutuel Jr. to boarding school—Tote Boarding School, of course.

Now along comes Mr. Scott to argue that the pari-mutuel machines are not entirely selfish, and, if approached in the proper manner, will also contribute. This, if true, is a very important discovery and Mr. Scott shouldn't keep the formula to himself any more than medical men should keep secret their discoveries for the benefit of humanity. Because if there ever were a group of sufferers who need to "get well" it is the race track bettors.

If the superior court sides with Mr. Scott and rules that he can go to Santa Anita as often as he wants to, he is going to have a hard time getting any privacy. Someone will point him out and say, "There goes Mr. Scott—THE Mr. Scott"—and a line will form in back of him and follow him to whatever window he goes to, listening for his choice in the race. Then, with thousands of ears listening he will have to make his decision—his Dread Scott Decision, so to speak—whether to fool the curious and ask for the wrong number, or beat the odds down to ten cents on the dollar by letting everyone know what he is betting.

As I write this I can almost hear the angry gnashing of teeth by many good burghers of Los Angeles when they picked up today's paper and read about Mr. Scott. Here he has been, a man with a knowledge of how to beat the races, right in their midst since the opening day of Santa Anita. Had they known of his presence, and of his gift, his popularity would have been second to none in this area.

If and when I meet Mr. Scott I am not going to ask him any foolish questions, but get right down to brass tacks. As man to man I am going to ask him for his selections for tomorrow. There will be no nonsense about the weather or how do you feel, Mr. Scott.

Mama, that man is here again! Well, folks, I am back to torment you with my amateurish bunk, Golly!

If you don't like it, you can have the pleasure of watching me burn when you make the fire in the morning. That's something.

The big news, of course, is the new golf club just organized. The final organization meeting was held on Thursday evening of last week. The officers and board were confirmed. Bob Roberts, president; Seth Beach, vice-president; Bron Smith, secretary; Larry Kelly, treasurer; Mike Kelly, board member, Ed Cook, board member; J. C. Wilson, board member.

Plans are going ahead for further activities and will be announced after the next meeting of the board to be held Thursday evening.

The membership drive will start this week with new application blanks and membership cards to go to each member. From all indications it is expected to have 100 members enrolled by Feb. 1. Many improvements are planned in the very near future to improve the course and clubhouse. That will make it by far the best in the Mother Lode country.

A NEW STORE IN A NEW BUILDING opened in Placerville Friday becoming the 43rd unit in the organization of junior department stores owned by Joe Cornet. The new building, located almost opposite the Forest Service headquarters, was erected by Walter G. Preddy. The store occupies the full front and the full depth of the building. A Democrat Photo.

LOTUS NOTES

The New Year came in with a rainy day and continued nearly all week with two days being partly cloudy. The high temperature was from 54 to 60 degrees for the week. Some years have passed since we had an opening of the New Year like this of 1940, having so much rain. At this writing it is raining and the rain is in every way beneficial to the farmers and stockmen.

Mrs. Lydia Blodgett, who spent the holidays at Oroville, returned to her home here the past week much enjoying her visit and the holidays in Oroville.

Dudley Stevenson and wife spent New Year's in Oakland with Mrs. Stevenson's parents, Jack White, and wife, returning home on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Angie De Lory and son, Everett, and Mrs. Walter Spoon, of Coloma, Le Roy Clark and wife, of Roseville, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Washburn, of Sacramento, and Joe De Matanza, of Kelsey, were among those transacting business in our town the past week.

Gerald Rasmussen and wife with their baby daughter, Nancy, came over from their Placerville home Sunday evening and spent a short time visiting with Gerald's uncles, Charlie and George.

After spending Christmas and the week visiting at Gridley with Mrs. Rasmussen's son, Clifford Saake, and family, George Rasmussen and wife, of San Francisco, came to Lotus. Leaving Gridley last Wednesday for Sacramento, from the capital city they took the bus for Placerville, took a taxi on their arrival at the county seat and Bob Bergantz, the taxi driver, brought them to Lotus Wednesday shortly after the noon hour. They remained the rest of the week visiting at George's old home and birthplace with his brother, Judge Rasmussen, and sister Lou. They returned to their San Francisco home Monday morning, Mrs. Florence Hines taking them to Sacramento. George likes to visit at his old home at Lotus.

Assistant District Attorney Robert E. Roberts was in our town Saturday evening from his office in Placerville attending to some business matters with Judge Rasmussen. He was accompanied by Ogden Hook of the Bank of America, and wife, also Mrs. Mary Elliott who came out to enjoy an evening ride after their dinner. We must say that Bob picked out a poor evening to take his guests out riding as the day and night was a rainy one. However, call again Bob and folks when the evenings are pleasant.

The ladies of Lotus, Coloma, and Granite Hill are all busy making preparations for the 49 dance at Coloma Saturday night, January 20. Posters are out for the dance and the music for the evening will be furnished by the Eddie Meltz orchestra of seven or more pieces from Auburn. The midnight lunch will be in every way up-to-date.

The benefit dance at Cool for the Georgetown Water District was well attended by Lotus folks, among them being Archie Lawyer, George Luneman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hines, William, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rice, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bacchi, Mrs. H. Reaside and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bacchi.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Reaside entertained a few friends on New Year's Eve. A few rounds of whist and some games, followed by refreshments at midnight, concluded a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Irma Lawyer and son, Raymond, Mrs. Charles Hines, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rice, Henry Bacchi and Mr. and Mrs. H. Reaside were among those attending Sutter Mill Rebekah Lodge's first New Year whist party Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Charles Hines, Mrs. Irma Lawyer and Raymond Lawyer drove to El Dorado Wednesday evening to the card party. They also took in the whist party given by Placerville Rebekah Lodge Thursday evening.

Oscar Fleming was a caller in Lotus Saturday.

Miss Helen Reaside returned to her home Sunday evening after a seven-month visit in Canada and the eastern states.

Jim Keane, who hasn't been around Lotus for many months, was up from Sacramento on Sunday. Mrs. Keane accompanied him. George Luneman, Irma Lawyer, Henry Bacchi and Mr. and Mrs. Reaside drove to Garden Valley on Friday evening to take in the community card party.

The January meeting of the Coloma Farm Center was held Wednesday night of last week starting with a dinner for new members. After the business meeting a splendid program was presented. A talk was given by Carroll Miller on his recent trip to England, and another talk by B. E. Haslam on conservation. The very interesting subject of "Rubber" was discussed by Earl Blair. A few words were heard from J. A. Irving, and several selections by Leo Ench. the meeting adjourned.

MISSOURI FLAT
Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bales are the parents of a son, Gordon Lee, weight 6 1/2 pounds, born Saturday afternoon, January 6th. And—Grandpa Bales proud—there's nary a button on the vest—these days.

The dance on Saturday night was a very nice one—the largest crowd, I believe we have ever had and no one was ready to quit dancing at 2:30 a. m.

The Thespian Club met at 8 o'clock on Monday night—but, due to the storm only a few members were present. The luncheon set to be raffles for the benefit of our club fund was won by Mrs. Sam Swartz. Due to lack of attendance on Monday we have decided to hold a special meeting, on Friday evening, at 8:00 p. m. and urge all members to be present.

GARDEN VALLEY

After a two-week vacation the Garden Valley school opened Monday. Miss Rachel Moscon, our teacher, spent her vacation in San Francisco with her mother.

The H. E. Club, of Marshall Grange was to meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Richards, of Georgetown, Thursday, Jan. 11th, at one o'clock.

Marshall Grange will give a card party in Garden Valley Hall Friday, January 12th at 8 o'clock.

GEORGETOWN

Mrs. Lettie French, Junior Past Matron of Mountain Fern Chapter, O. E. S., celebrated birthday night the last meeting in December. A social evening was enjoyed by all, then a delicious lunch was served.

The birthday cake with candles and birthday cards were for the honored guests, Mae Higgins, Ethel Irish and Henry Irish, all of whom had birthdays in December.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jerrett spent New Year's Day and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jerrett near Cool.

Miss Frances Leutinger went to Oakland Saturday to spend a week with her brother, Fred Leutinger, and family.

Mrs. Ruth Neafus, of Modesto, was here Thursday on business.

Don't forget, there is a Fireman's card party Friday night, Jan. 19th. Saturday night the Rebekahs and I. O. O. F. held a joint installation of officers. The Rebekah officers are: Hattie L. Davey, N. G.; Henrietta Hume, V. G.; Alta Douglas, Rec. Sec. and Fin. Sec.; Annie Heindel, Treas.; Flossie Frances, Warden; Sylvia Nelson, Conductor; Ida May Jerrett, Chap.; Mollie Nathlich, R. S. N. G.; Irene Irish, L. S. N. G.; Dora Crawford, R. S. V. G.; Lizzie Irish, L. S. V. G.; Elizabeth Murdoch, I. G. and E. G. Jerrett, O. G. The impressive installation ceremonies were conducted by D. D. G. P. Maude Panning, assisted by acting G. M. Annie Yeager, and D. D. G. P. Harvey Lyon. A drill team of sixteen Rebekahs and Odd Fellows from Placerville assisted as an escort in the installing ceremonies. Ida May Jerrett, in a gracious manner, presented D. D. G. P. Maude Panning with a beautiful gift. Immediately after the ceremonies the visiting team went through an elaborate floor drill. The grand officers of the Encampment of I. O. O. F. who were present were Fred Heindel, of Ione, and Wm. Shuman, of Placerville. Many visitors were over from Placerville.

Roy Vanderhayden as grand marshal assisted District Deputy Harvey Lyon in installing the following I. O. O. F. officers, R. O. Murdoch, N. G.; Joe Bowman, V. G.; Charles Irish, R. S. N. G.; Harry Balderston, R. S. V. G.; William Breedlove, secretary; C. D. Hume, recording secretary; G. C. Lundie, treasurer; Loris Grover, chaplain; Arthur Nathlich, warden; and Sartor Francis, conductor. About seventy five members, visiting members and invited guests sat down to a delicious supper.

Household Hint

In making a jellied fish, meat or chicken mold, put a half-inch layer of plain gelatin in the bottom of the mold first and let it chill until stiff before adding the mixture. This will give the finished dish a smooth surface that can be garnished quickly with sliced hard-cooked eggs, thin rings of pimiento, stuffed olives and bits of cress.

"ROSE MARIE" TO BE SHOWN AT EL DORADO THEATER SATURDAY, SUNDAY

Admirers of Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald who failed to see and hear them in "Rose Marie" in its first showings, will have an opportunity to do so Saturday when the picture is shown on the El Dorado Theater screen.

The "Rose Marie" engagement is limited to two days, Saturday and Sunday.

The story, of course, has a romantic interest and is beautifully told by a large and competent cast whose efforts supplement the musical notability of the film, competently attended to by the starring duo.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR CUTTING DAIRY FEED COSTS OFFERED

Recommendations for cutting feed costs on dairy farms are offered by I. W. Lilley, farm advisor representing the University of California Agricultural Extension Service in El Dorado county.

Since from fifty to sixty per cent of the cost of producing butterfat is for feed, said Lilley, each saving in feed costs brings about a greater total economy than any other single item.

The most important method of saving on feed, he said, is by feeding and milking fewer but better cows. He recommended that each cow be tested regularly for production and the unprofitable ones be sold to butchers.

"For the same amount required to feed the average cow for a year you can test a forty-cow herd for the same period of time," commented Lilley, "and find out which cows are paying their way and which are merely boarders."

He also recommended that dairymen feed more home-grown roughages and, if possible, use permanent pasture. Alfalfa supplies will go farther, he said, if mixed with oat hay or oat and vetch hay. In addition, dairymen should study their feed needs carefully so as to develop a feeding program that will provide their cows with a well-balanced ration suitable under their particular conditions.

When it is necessary to buy feed, said Lilley, dairymen should watch the markets closely so that purchases may be made when prices are most favorable. By-product feeds, such as cull raisins and potatoes, will prove valuable if they can be bought at the right prices.

On motion of Earl Blair, seconded by L. R. Enzler, the directors went on record as suggesting to each center chairman that he name members of his center to co-operate with the county chairman in developing test and demonstration plots seeking improvement in county agriculture in general.

Another feature of the meeting was the suggestion that in view of the close relationship between the Farm Bureau and the Soil Conservation Service as a result of the participation by Farm Bureau members in various conservation practices in co-operation with the Soil Conservation Service, the latter organization should have a representative in attendance at meetings of the Farm Bureau directors.

Glenn Paxton, area conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, will be asked to nominate a representative of the service to the directorate, it was indicated.

The drawing of Eileen Veerkamp was chosen for center meeting notices for the coming month. Although the February meeting of the directors will be held, as usual, on the second Thursday of the month, the March meeting will be on the second Wednesday, since another important farming activity is being planned for March 14th, it was agreed.

"HOLLYWOOD CAVALCADE" SUNDAY AT EMPIRE; THRILLER SATURDAY

Sunday's new show at the Empire theater, which will continue on through Monday, brings Alice Faye and Don Ameche heading a strong cast in the Daryl F. Zanuck technicolor interpretation of the "Hollywood Cavalcade."

This follows the Saturday show, which is for one day only, featuring "Charlie Chan at Treasure Island," a mystery thriller laid at the world's fair site at the bay.

"Hollywood Cavalcade," as one might suppose, turns back the pages to the beginning of the film industry in the film capital and includes the Mack Sennett bathing beauties, the Keystone Comedy cops, and others dear to the hearts of movie-goers twenty and thirty years ago.

Rain "Normal" As Of Feb. 1

Thursday evening to bring the total measurement at that hour for the previous 24-hour period to 1.25 inches.

An additional six tenths of an inch of rain was recorded after that hour and by eight o'clock Friday morning.

The State Division of Highways Friday morning reported a total depth of 32 inches of snow at Twin Bridges and a total depth of 18 inches of snow at Strawberry of which four inches was new snow. This indicated that rains had settled the previous pack of sixteen inches by two inches.

The same source reported snow falling in Camino early Friday and unofficial reports told of snow falling as far westerly as the Fruit Ridge section.

It was understood, however, that the fall melted quickly in the lower levels.

A plea of guilty was entered in the Justice Court of Placerville township on Thursday, January 11th, in the case of R. W. Nance, charged with possession of slot machines, and a fine of $100 was imposed.

Indian Medicine Man Wins Acquittal

CLOVIS, (UP)—Dewey Conway, Indian medicine man accused by the state of violating the state medical act, was free of the charges today. A jury of 12 men in Clovis justice court acquitted Conway after deliberating 20 minutes last night to end the three day trial.

Earl Shufflin, of Georgetown, was arrested Thursday by Deputy Clarence Collins and lodged in the county jail on a charge of assault and battery, said to be based upon the developments in a domestic agreement.

$1.00 TIRE SALE

First Line Quality
OXFORD TIRES
Buy First Tire at Regular Price
GET NEXT TIRE
Same Size—For Only

It's Only Because of a
SPECIAL PURCHASE

That We Are Able to Offer You This Opportunity to SAVE $17.50 to $25.90

Per Set of 4 Tires—According to Size

When you get a NEW Tire for a Dollar—you're saving money and no mistake—and that's our liberal offer, as described above!

OXFORD Tires are certified by the manufacturer to be First Line Quality throughout—with safe, silent rib treads—heavily cushioned and reinforced with tough breaker strips—treads that give long mileage and maximum non-skid protection. OXFORD Tires have the new cushioned, low stretch, high twist cotton cord plies, which means less heat, more strength and more safety. They are safer, stronger, and less subject to rupture, bruises and blowouts. Save with Safety!
